Will "Forgive And Forget" If Soviet Plays Fair With Poland

NOTE PREPARED

French And British Premiers In Accord, If Reds Pay Russ Bills

CALL CONFERENCE

America And Italy Are To Be Consulted Before Missive Is Sent

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 28.—The British note to the Soviet regarding the future of Poland was drafted at Boulogne yesterday afternoon, in accordance with Mr. Lloyd George's instruction. M. Millerand approved, provided that the proposed London conference does not imply recognition of the Soviet.

The note, which will be signed by Great Britain alone, will be submitted to the United States as well as to Italy, before despatch to Moscow.

France is willing to waive the question of repudiation of the Russian debt and the cessation of Soviet propaganda until the Russo-Polish question has been settled.

It is believed that, if the Soviet displays sincerity in the preliminary pourparlers with Poland, the negotiations may be widened.

The two Premiers did not discuss the Soviet's demand for the surrender of General Wrangel.

8-HOUR CAUCUS

Boulogne, July 27.—The Anglo-French Conference lasted three hours. Mr. Lloyd George afterwards informed Reuters correspondent that complete agreement had been reached on all points.

It has been decided, the Prime Minister said, subject to Italy's approval, to inform the Soviet Government that, if the Allies are to attend a general conference, certain things must be made clear.

Poland and the other border States must take part in the conference, the primary object of which would be the re-establishment of the peace of Europe.

THEN CAN DO IT

Then the conference could proceed to discuss questions between Russia and the Allies, with a view to establishing normal relations.

If the Soviet replies that it can only make peace with Poland separately, the conference will fall to the ground. If it agrees to the Allies proposals, the conference could meet within a month.

Mr. Lloyd George added that M. Millerand and he agreed that a very good piece of work had been done here today.

MUST PAY DEBTS

London, July 27.—The French newspapers assert that Mr. Millerand, at the conference with Mr. Lloyd George at Boulogne, will insist on non-recognition of the Soviet until it agrees to recognise the financial obligations of Tsarist Russia and to establish a properly constituted Government of Russia by allowing Russians freely to elect a national assembly.

Mr. Millerand is also said to favor a conference in London of representatives of all the Governments constituted on ex-Russian territory.

Mr. Lloyd George, it is stated, arranged the meeting at Boulogne in order to try to overcome Millerand's objections to negotiations with Moscow.

AMERICA BALKS

Washington, July 27.—It is indicated that the United States will not take part in the proposed conference at London, between Russia, the States bordering on Russia and the Allies, if invited, unless a more urgent reason is given than is now apparent.

LITHUANIAN DEFI

London, July 28.—Lithuania has sent an ultimatum to the Soviet, owing to the failure of the Bolsheviks to evacuate Vilna.

Ruins Of Famed Cloth Hall At Ypres To Stand As War Memorial

Famous ruins to stand as war memorial

INTERNATIONAL

As a memorial to German destructiveness the ruins of the famous Cloth Hall at Ypres, Belgium, will remain just as they are today. The shaking walls of the once beautiful edifice are to be strengthened and braced and the debris in and around the building cleared away. Beautiful lawns will surround the ruins and it will be opened to the public. The photograph shows the ruins as they are today. The picture was made shortly after the work of bracing the ruins had been started.

Preliminary Injunction Is Granted In Property Case In British Supreme Court

Tam Wa And British And Foreign Bible Society Sue Atkinson And Dallas, Ltd., For "Access Of Light"; Fence Ordered To Be Removed

A preliminary injunction against the defendants was granted in the British Supreme Court yesterday in the case of Tam Wa and the British and Foreign Bible Society against Atkinson and Dallas, Ltd. The claim is one of the most important property cases ever brought before the Court.

The application of the plaintiffs yesterday was "for an order that defendants do pull down and remove the fence erected by them along the boundary between British Consular Lots Nos. 117 and 117C and that the defendants their agents and servants be restrained until judgment in this action from placing any erection on the said lot 117 so as to be a nuisance to the plaintiffs or to obstruct or diminish the access of light and air over British Consular Lot No. 117 to the windows in the buildings on lot 117C facing lot 117 or any of them."

Mr. L. Ward, of Messrs. Platt, Macleod and Wilson was counsel for the plaintiffs, while Mr. Reader Harris of Messrs. White-Ccoper, Master and Harris represented the defendants. Judge Skinner Turner heard the motion.

CASE IMPORTANT

Mr. Ward opened the case by stating that this was one of the most important cases ever before the court, and that the decision of this case would effect practically all property-owners in Shanghai.

Mr. Ward said that Tam Wah was the beneficial owner of B.C. lot No. 117 C. in Peking Road, the society were the registered owners and defendants were the registered owners of the adjoining lot. He requested an order that the defendants pull down and remove, pending judgment in this action, a fence erected along the boundary of these two lots and to restrain them from placing any erection on their lot which would be a nuisance to plaintiffs and restrict the free passage of light and air to their property.

Previous to November 20, 1868, these two lots were in the same ownership, but on that date No. 117C was carved out of the original lot and transferred to the predecessors of Tam Wah, whilst what remained of No. 117 retained that designation and was transferred to defendants. The buildings on plaintiffs' lot as they stand at present are in substantially the same condition as when the transfer took place in 1868 and along the boundary there are a number of windows in the plaintiffs' building which were also there in 1868.

The boundary between the two properties is practically that of the building on plaintiffs' property, only a few inches of land belonging to plaintiffs being between. Ever since 1868, unrestricted light and air had come across defendants' property to these windows, but, on June 26 and 27 this year, defendants erected a boundary fence right alongside and close up to the building. They obviously did that for the purpose of raising the very question and getting the law determined. The cost of erecting the fence was very slight and so also would be its removal.

DEFENDANTS FIRM

Answering the Judge, Mr. Reader Harris said that defendants were not prepared to take the fence down.

Mr. Ward said there had been correspondence and the proper course for defendants would have been to inform plaintiffs that they were going to erect the fence. An injunction could then have been applied for and the matter settled. The idea obviously was either to force the plaintiffs to sell their own property or to buy a portion of defendants' land. The question

Arabs Continue To Harass British; Turks Assisting

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 27.—Replying to a question by Lieut-Col. Hon. Arthur Murray in the House of Commons today, Mr. Winston Churchill stated that the garrison at Rumeta, after being relieved on July 26, had been withdrawn northwards.

The Arabs were still sporadically attacking the railway and a British column would shortly proceed to clear up the situation.

There had been 200 to 300 casualties (British), mostly among Indian units. Half-a-dozen British officers had been killed or wounded.

There was evidence that members of the Turkish forces in Mesopotamia were assisting the Arabs.

"HUSBAND" OF BRIDE-TO-BE IS STUNNED; "WIFE" CALM

Gerve Baronti, Betrothed To Prominent Man, Denies Relationship

"WAS ALL A SHAM!"

Mr. Danner, Though, Claims He Can Show Proofs Of The Wedding

Picture to yourself a young husband walking up and down in his office, pinching himself occasionally in a distracted sort of way to convince himself that he is really awake and then picking up THE CHINA PRESS for the seventh time, again to read therein the announcement of his wife's engagement to another man.

Picture this to yourself and you will have a mental panorama of the situation in which Mr. G. B. Danner found himself yesterday morning when he read the news that Miss Gerve Baronti, whom he claims as his wife, had become engaged to marry Mr. G. A. Bena, President of the Shanghai Italian Chamber of Commerce.

The announcement, made by THE CHINA PRESS yesterday, that a marriage had been arranged between Mr. Bena and Gerve Baronti was received with something more than a mere flutter of interest by reason of the prominence of the principals.

Mr. Bena is one of the leading figures of the Italian community, widely known in commercial and official circles, while Gerve Baronti is famed the world over for her poetry, dramas and other writings.

But to a considerable number of friends here the unique figure in the situation was Mr. Danner.

"And no one," said Mr. Danner yesterday, "was more stunned than I."

He went on to explain that he and Gerve Baronti had been wed all of three years ago in the United States—at Townsend, Mass.—and added that the ceremony had been performed by a Methodist minister.

"I still have the marriage certificate," he declared, "and I am utterly at a loss to explain this new situation."

Mr. Danner said that, following their wedding, he and his bride left America and travelled extensively. They were in India [illegible] he said, before coming to Shanghai, last October.

"There was one of those little domestic differences not long ago," he explained, "and she went over to the Astor House while I took quarters downtown; but this I regarded as a passing incident. I had expected that in a short time we would take a house here and was planning for it. Then this marriage announcement appeared ....."

DENIAL IS GIVEN

And the lady—the central figure of this unusual drama—discredits utterly what Mr. Danner says.

"There never was a wedding," she declared emphatically last night. "It was a sham, all a sham—something that I did out of sheer kindness, to help a man who was in trouble. I am not married to him, and I never have been."

She declared that this will eventually be admitted by Mr. Danner. She said that she intends to see Mr. Danner today and that he will make a statement that will explain and clear up all questions.

It was while she was discussing the marriage announcement, with its subsequent incidents last night, that some reference was made to her own literary attainments; and it was suggested that the situation that has arisen had in it elements that might well engage the interest of a writer.

She gave an appreciative nod. "It is good copy," she admitted, with a smile, "and I might like to write it myself if I were not the chief character."

WILD DISORDER MARKS CLOSING OF JAP DIET; ONE MAN HURT

Members Fight In Lobby Over Charges Hurled At Ministers

SHIMADA IS UNPUNISHED

Government Fails To Chasten Man Who Led Attack On Its Leaders

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, July 29.—The extraordinary session of the Diet was formally closed this morning. The Premier read the Imperial speech, appreciating the labors of the Members.

A FREE FIGHT

Tokio July 29.—The extraordinary session of the Diet came to an end last night amid scenes of disorder which amounted almost to a free fight on the floor of the House.

The Government majority failed to discipline Mr. Shimada, who led the attack on the Ministers who are charged with speculation in stocks.

Mr. Shimada was wildly cheered by the Opposition.

Adjournment sine die carried at 11 p.m. Immediately afterwards, as members were passing into the lobby, a Seiyukai member attacked a Kenseikai member with an iron fan, injuring him severely. A general struggle ensued.

BLOWS EXCHANGED

Pandemonium reigned in the Disciplinary Committee's room, where desks were overturned, while in the lobby blows were being dealt out right and left.

The formal closing ceremony takes place this morning. Further development[illegible] expected in connection w[illegible] against Minis[illegible] severely [illegible] Opposit[illegible] tion.

ANOTHER RESOLUTION

Tokio, July 28.—In the House of Representatives today, Mr. Yukio Ozaki, the Liberal leader and ex-Minister of Justice, introduced a resolution, similar to that introduced by Mr. Shimada, accusing the three Ministers of improper stock exchange transactions.

He scathingly denounced the action of the Government Party in "stifling liberty of speech in the Diet where it should be greater than outside but is now the reverse."

BEGS THE QUESTION

Mr. Ozaki, asked how the actions of the Government were to be supervised, if interpellators were punished for allegations regarding suspicious circumstances, even in the case where the allegations turned out to be unfounded.

He declared that he would fight the issue to a finish, regardless of consequences. His resolution was shelved.

Mr. Shimada refused to appear before the Disciplinary Committee today because the Seiyukai majority on the Committee refused to call the three Ministers, against whom Mr. Shimada's charges were made.

PEERS PASS BUDGET

Tokio, July 28.—The supplementary budget and the bills for the increase of taxation were passed by the House of Peers today, which is the last day of the session, and the Government is thus in a position to carry out its new program of national defense.

Villa Is Ready To Quit Or Fight

(Reuter's Service)

Eagle Pass, Texas, July 27.—The arrival of General Villa at Sabinas was followed by a sharp encounter with the small Government forces there. It is reported that General Villa's forces numbered 400 men.

General Villa will start on the warpath unless his terms of surrender are accepted by the Huerta Government.

It is stated he has seized an American brewer, Mr. Hageilin, whom he is holding for ransom.

Mexico, City, July 27.—A Government bulletin states that General Villa has telegraphed to President Huerta, offering to surrender unconditionally. The Government instructed him to report to General Martinez and to repair the railway.

General Villa replied that the railway had been repaired, signing himself, "Affectionately, Francisco Villa."

All trains are now running regularly to the north.

Wisconsin Senator Warns Harding Against Reaction

REP. I.L. LENROOT. ©INT'L.

Superior, Wis., July 20.—Expressing regret at the nomination of Senator Harding by the Republican convention, Senator Lenroot of Wisconsin, in a statement here today, declared he would be "among the first to join a new political party" if, when elected President, Harding should adopt reactionary policies and be controlled by the Old Guard.

"I frankly regret the choice of [illegible] in November. [illegible]ention, Senator [illegible]d for Johnson. [illegible]e so disgusted [illegible]administration," said Senator Kenyon, "that they will elect Harding. The Republicans, however, may as well get over the idea that the election is a cinch and it behooves every Republican to buckle down to hard work for the ticket. Governor Coolidge's nomination for Vice-President strengthens the ticket in the East and undoubtedly throughout the whole country. As usual, the country west of the Mississippi is forgotten, but that part of the country also will be forgotten by the Democrats.

PROGRESSIVE DISSATISFIED

"There is dissatisfaction on the part of Progressives, but they must choose between supporting the Republican ticket and having another four years of Democratic rule and all that it implies. In this situation there can be but one choice, it seems to me, and that is to heartily support the Republican ticket.

"There is much talk of a third party. This, if supported by Progressives, would only insure a Democratic victory. If, when elected President, Harding proceeds to adopt reactionary policies and be controlled by the old guard, I shall be among the first to join a new political party with policies that are constructively liberal and not destructively radical."

"HAS NO WALKAWAY"

Fort Dodge, Iowa.—Senator W. S. Kenyon, who has returned to his home here for a rest, declared today that he was disappointed that the Republicans failed to nominate a Progressive for President, but said that he was willing to take the stump to help insure a Re-

London, July 27.—In connection with the report that the Prince of Wales' Indian tour has been postponed owing to the Prince's ill-health, Reuter understands that advices from Australia indicate that the severe strain of his protracted tour in Australasia has told upon the Prince's health and rendered it necessary to consider whether it would be desirable to postpone for a short period his projected visit to India.

O'Dwyer Defends Amritsar Officers

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 27.—Sir Michael O'Dwyer, late Lieut.-Governor of the Punjab, has written a long letter to the Morning Post on the subject of the Amritsar riots.

He complains of harsh treatment of officers administering martial law in India and of persecution of officials and loyal Indians by extremists.

He maintains that his action in connection with General Dyer's order was justified, and concludes with a tribute to officers and men in the Punjab for their services in the war and last year's rebellion.

SOVIET EVADES RESPONSIBILITY FOR BAKU EVILS

Cruelties To British Prisoners In Azerbaijan Exaggerated, Is Claim

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 27.—In the House of Commons this afternoon, replying to Mr. Ronald McNeill with regard to the report that 57 British prisoners at Baku are confined in a small room, Mr. Bonar Law said that the Government had brought the strongest pressure to bear on the Soviet in connection with this matter, but that the Soviet had disclaimed responsibility for occurrence in the Azerbaijan Republic, in which Baku is situated, and declared that the reports of ill-treatment of prisoners were unfounded.

"REDS" PROTEST

The Government, he said, this morning received a telegram from the Soviet, protesting against suspension of the repatriation of Russian prisoners and suggesting that the Government should fix a date for a complete exchange of British and Russian prisoners; whereupon the Soviet engages to use its influence to induce Azerbaijan to give up the prisoners at Baku.

"MAKE GOOD FIRST"

The Government replied, Mr. Bonar Law continued, that they would make arrangements for such an exchange as soon as they learned that the Soviet would secure the repatriation of all British subjects in Russia, including Baku; and that until the belief, which was greatly exciting the British public, that these prisoners were being inhumanely treated was dissipated, the impending negotiations must be futile.

Peking Chamber Sends Food To His Army To Express Gratitude

BY NATHANIEL PEFFER
(Staff Wire to THE CHINA PRESS)

Peking, July 29.—The police of Peking have begun their search and sealing of the palatial residences of the ten Anfuite leaders outlawed yesterday by a Presidential Mandate. Important documents recording the plunderings committed by the various traitors are said to have been discovered and are being conveyed in motor vans to the Metropolitan police headquarters.

Suggestions have been made by certain influential personages to confiscate the property thus sealed up. Popular expressions show that the suggestion might be carried out and the proceeds of the sales of the confiscated goods will be devoted to war-torn districts effected by the present strife.

Already 18,000 Anfu soldiers found in the vicinity of Peking have been disarmed by the Chihli troops. The men showed little or no resistance. No force was necessary in any of the barracks where they are now confined.

The Chihli and Fengtien forces are now rounding up other routed Anfu militarists.

TROOPS ON THE MOVE

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, July 29.—It is reported that the first and fourth Mixed Frontier Brigades, which remained at Loyang, Honan, cut off from the north by General Wu Pei-fu's troops, are joining General Cheng Shu-fan, the Tuchun of Shensi.

General Ma Liang states that he is not an Anfuite, but a follower of Marshal Tuan Chi-jui. It is believed that he will not make any further trouble.

Li Yuan, the Amban at Urga, has requested the permission of the Government to convert the Frontier troops there into an Amban's bodyguard.

OPIUM FOUND

The gendarmerie yesterday continued the systematic searching of the residences of members of the Anfu Club. It is reported that a large quantity of opium was found in General Wu Kwang-hsin's residence.

It is understood that Yeh Kung-chow has been appointed General Chang Tso-lin's diplomatic adviser, and that Liang Shih-yi will be offered the post of Northern Peace Delegate in Shanghai.

The Peking Chamber of Commerce is sending quantities of food and fruit to the Chihli forces as an expression of gratitude for the overthrow of the Anfuites.

RIGHT OF ASYLUM

At a meeting of the Diplomatic Corps yesterday the discussion of the question of right of asylum in the Legation quarter was begun.

A majority favored the exclusion of refugees and based their arguments on the terms of the Protocol.

Mr. Obata, the Japanese Minister, stated that, if a unanimous ruling was desired, he thought that the principle should be accepted that any action taken should apply to future occasions as well as the present; and that, furthermore, if it was desirable to exclude refugees from the Legation quarter, he thought the principle might be extended to all foreign concessions and settlements in China.

In any case, Mr. Obata added, the subject required mature consideration and he was not at the moment in a position to decide.

Another Minister asked what was the position of Ministers representing countries which had not signed the Protocol; while a third pointed out that the Protocol prohibited Chinese from residence in the quarter, without defining the period, which should constitute residence; and said he thought that that might be decided by the Corps allowing a stated number of days, during which period Chinese might remain in the quarter.

The British, French and American Ministers then announced their intention of notifying their nationals that Chinese were not allowed to reside in the quarter and instructing them to turn them out, if they were harboring any, within forty-eight hours. The meeting then ended.

DIPLOMATS MEET

Peking, July 28.—The Diplomatic Corps today discussed the question of Anfu refugees in the Legation quarter but no decision was reached.

It is understood that the British, American and French Ministers are reminding their nationals that, according to the protocol, Chinese cannot reside within the Legation quarter and that, if they are at present harboring any Chinese, the latter must be turned out within 48 hours. This does not apply to the Legations.

"STRICTLY NEUTRAL"

Tokio, July 28.—Mr. Masanao Hanihara, former Counsellor of Legation at Washington and now Vice-Minister of Foreign Affairs, interviewed by Kokusai today, said:

"Japan's attitude of strict non-interference in the internal, political conflict in China has been made more than plain by recent statements, issued by the Foreign Office in Tokio and the Legation in Peking. We are scrupulously adhering to this policy but, nevertheless, newspaper reports, emanating from certain sources in China, charge Japan with assisting the Anfu party.

"It has even been alleged that Japan, in violation of the new consortium agreement, has loaned several million dollars to the Anfu Party. It need hardly be pointed out that these charges are absolutely unfounded and malicious."

BRITISH ARMY FIGURES GIVEN

Larger Now Than In 1914, Says Churchill; Reserve Is Cut In Half

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 27.—In the House of Commons today, replying to Sir Arthur Fell, Mr. Winston Churchill said that there were approximately 5,000 more soldiers serving with the colors today in Great Britain than in 1914. The reserve, he said, was less than half as large, and the territorial force had only reached half its previous strength.

Besides 5,000 extra soldiers, many of whom were young recruits, there were 2,000 regulars who were war invalids not yet discharged, and also 5,000 men awaiting demobilisation, who were still in hospital recovering from wounds or sickness.

IN RE THE CABINET

Replying to Mr. J. A. R. Marriott, regarding the proposed permanent Imperial Cabinet, Mr. Bonar Law referred to his reply to Mr. Percy Hurd in the House on May 4, when he stated that the whole matter would be discussed at the Imperial Conference to be held in 1921. Meanwhile, he said, communications between the Cabinet in London and the Dominions were being maintained, and important papers of Imperial concern were forwarded every week for the information of Dominion Prime Ministers.

Mr. Bonar Law added that the last meeting at which Dominion representatives were present was just before the Spa Conference.

until they received word from a sick boss in Philadelphia. There never was a chance in this boss controlled convention for a man of Hiram Johnson's type.

"The convention was strong for Roosevelt—he being dead. If Roosevelt had been alive, he would have had about as much chance in the convention as Johnson. If Johnson had been dead, he probably would have had as much condolence as Roosevelt. The kind of men the people want are the kind of men the bosses are determined the people shall not have.

ALL WILL WORK

"The men who supported Johnson will be found working for the ticket and working in the next Congress as they have in this for legislation in the interests of all the people and will be found fighting against domination of Congress by those seeking special favors and special privileges in legislation."

Senator Kenyon had words of praise for the Republican nominee.

"Senator Harding is a man of charming personality, a splendid orator, clean and honorable in private and public life, 100 percent American, and will make a good President."

ENVOYS GATHER FOR CONFERENCE IN VLADIVOSTOK

Representatives Of Siberian Governments Assemble To Aid Unification

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Vladivostok, July 29.—The Chita delegates, representing the Government, the Assembly, peasants, Cossacks and buriats, have arrived in Vladivostok to take part in the negotiations for the joining up of the Far Eastern States.

The chairman of the delegation stated that the rumors which have been circulated recently, that the inhabitants were leaving Chita as a result of the Japanese evacuation, were groundless. The evacuation had so far only been discussed and was not taking place.

The dividing line between the Verdhne-Udinsk and Chita governments is the River Selenga. The Verdhne-Udinsk army, which consists of two divisions, is at present occupied in putting down a revolt which has broken out in several districts.

The Old Believers, who until recently were upholding Krasnochekoff, are taking part in the revolt.

COSSACK MARAUDERS

The Chita authorities are in favor of joining up the Far East and discontinuing warfare; but, no matter to what extent the authorities give way in order to bring about peace, there are 30,000 disciplined troops, consisting mostly of General Kappel's Cossacks, who will not capitulate.

These troops are made up of men from the Ural districts, who fought there and retreated a thousand versts through Siberia, and they form a compact and well-disciplined army. They have been compelled to retreat to the woods and will carry on guerilla warfare and do all the damage in their power to the railways.

Consequently, the Chita delegation is pessimistic as to the prospects of peace in the Zabaikal.

The Quaints

Again the Quaints delighted those who visited the Lyceum Theater last night with their melodies and their witticisms. They began well by trying to make a pierrot smile. It took them a great deal longer to make "Pierrot" Scovell titter than it did to make the house roar. The opening piece was altogether beautiful, both in music and in fun. It was clever. It was unique. It was quaint.

But no matter how clever, and how witty the first part was, it was defeated by one of the best numbers, that the best troupe that have visited us, have presented. They made their finale a medley of five songs. They did not sing them one after the other. They introduced them as special requests. They all started to sing together, and so well did they work the chords out, that the result was fine.

Tonight the company change their program again, and we now know the "Quaints" so well that we can recommend it before we taste.

Four more persons were fined before Mr. G. W. King, in the British Police Court, yesterday morning, for keeping dogs without having licenses for them. Three made the same excuse—that they thought their license ran from date to date and not for a calendar year.

B. L. Cheetham, 16 Kiukiang Road, Mrs. T. F. Anderson, 5 Park Lane, and Mrs. Christie, 30 Quinsan Road, were fined $1 each and Mrs. Benovitch, 29 Range Road, $2, being summoned in respect of two days.

Five similar cases were up before the Japanese authorities yesterday when fines of $2 or $1 were imposed in each case.

Preliminary Injunction Is Granted In Property Case In British Supreme Court

involved was almost as important as any that had ever come before the Court, for the judgment, whichever way it went, would be of serious consequence to all people here. He did not wish to argue that the law of land here was surrounded by all those technicalities which applied in England, but he asked for a decision on principles which applied to all—common sense and natural judgment.

FOR NATURAL JUSTICE

He submitted his case for the action on the principles of natural justice. Otherwise, conditions of life in Shanghai would be impossible. It was monstrous, it appeared to him, to suggest that a transfer of land did not imply the transfer of all the rights of accommodation by implication. Take the case of the Yangtsze Building. Suppose that by a transfer in the registry part of it was bought. Could it be seriously argued that although nothing had been said about it the owner who transferred and retained the remaining part of the land had not transferred to the purchaser the right of support? It must be the intention of the parties that that right be transferred.

The Court—To get these rights you must go to the English law of land.

Mr. Ward said he relied upon the doctrine of implication which was common to all systems of law.

The Court—It is an essential part of your case that some years ago this land was in one occupation?

Mr. Ward—Yes, that is a basis. This new lot is carved out of the old lot to my client, there is no mention of the building.

QUOTES MIXED COURT

Mr. Ward continued that all systems of law had arisen out of the complicated system of feudalism. The question was what did the common owner of the whole lot mean to transfer to the predecessors in title of the present parties. Counsel referred to a recent judgment of Mr. Grant Jones in the Mixed Court where it was held there was no such thing as a private way in China. All roads, in fact, were public rights. As one judge had said a building was not merely four walls but included windows and accommodations. He submitted defendants had not acted very reasonably in this case. If it were to be held that right of light and air did not pass with the transfer it would be a very serious thing indeed. His Lordship was peculiarly placed. There was no rigid code of native law. It was an ever growing law, as in any other country, and he asked His Lordship to apply the principles of natural justice.

Mr. Harris, in rising to reply on behalf of the defendants, said that plaintiffs, before they could obtain an injunction such as they asked for, must establish a prima facie case of legal right. In China there was no such thing as a right to light, and Shanghai came under the same regulations as the remainder of China in those matters.

His clients had no ulterior motive whatever in having the fence erected, though they admitted that a certain amount of light was kept out of the premises of plaintiffs by the fence. If the fence were pulled down any intending purchaser would come to the conclusion that any right to build on the land had been abrogated and he maintained that plaintiffs had not submitted a prima facie case showing their legal right for an injunction to pull down the fence.

In reply to a question from the judge, Mr. Harris stated that the beneficial owners of the land were not British subjects.

Mr. Harris concluded that it was for plaintiffs to establish in Chinese law that they had the right of light. He asked the Court not to make the order.

Mr. Ward answered briefly, and reiterated that the law was ever-growing.

The Court—Why help it to grow?

Mr. Ward—It is the duty and function of a judge to help it to grow.

The Court—How are you to deal with the different national interests that may arise?

Mr. Ward—I am not frightened of that: it ought not to weigh in this at all what other Courts may say. If my friend is right, it is impossible for a man to protect himself in Shanghai. It will be appalling, and fraught with very grave consequence, it, in such a case, a man is not entitled to light and air, and I ask the Court to hesitate very very long before it says such a right cannot be acquired. It must be a principle of Chinese law because it is a principle of natural justice. I do not depend on English law. It is inherent in every law.

The Court, in sustaining the motion, said the legal rights of the case itself would have to be decided after much fuller argument and very careful consideration. He was now asked to order defendants to take down a fence they had erected on the boundary between two lots of land. He had come to the conclusion he must make that order, that it was right he should. 'On June 11 defendants, told plaintiffs they were to put up a fense. They were told on June 22 that if any fense were put that would interfere with the light then enjoyed, plaintiffs would at once take steps to get an injunction to restrain them from doing it. On June 26 and 27, Saturday and Sunday—he did not lay very great stress on the days of the week though the plaintiffs' offices would not then be in use—defendants put up this fence, 8 feet high which it was admitted did cause some interference with light and air in plaintiffs' building. The action was commenced on July 3 and there was no doubt there was a very serious question to be decided in the case thereafter. He did not see defendants could be harmed in the sale of their property by taking down the fence. Under the circumstances he granted the order that the fence be taken down pending the result of the action.

Costs were ordered to be costs in the cause.

The statement of the claim now pending between the parties is as follows:

STATEMENT OF CLAIM

1.—The Plaintiff Society is the registered owner of British Consular Lot No. 117C. The Plaintiff Tam Wa has purchased the said lot from the society and is the beneficial owner thereof. The buildings on the said lot are now in the occupation of the Plaintiff Society as tenants of the Plaintiff Tam Wa.

2.—The defendants are a British company and the registered owners of British Consular Lot No. 117 situate immediately to the West and North of the said Lot No. 117 C.

3.—The land comprised in the said lot 117C was prior to November 20, 1868, part of the said lot 117.

4.—The said buildings on the said lot 117c were erected prior to November 20, 1868.

5.—The said buildings contained at their erection and still contain interalia 27 windows in the wall or walls along the boundary between the lots 117 and 117C, 11 on the ground floor, 9 on the first floor and 7 on the second floor.

6.—On November 20, 1868, the then registered owner of Lot 117 transfered that part of the lot which is now comprised in Lot 117C to the predecessor in the title of Plaintiffs and thereafter on the same day transferred the remainder of Lot 117 to the predecessor in the title of Defendants.

7.—The owners or occupiers of the said buildings on Lot 117C have enjoyed the free access of air and light over Lot 117 to the said windows from time of the erection of the said buildings until the 26th of June, 1920.

8.—On or about the 26th and 27th June, 1920, the Defendants erected a fence about eight feet high along the boundary between the two lots 117 and 117C which obstructs the access of light and air to the said 11 windows on the ground floor. The said fence is a nuisance to the said buildings and has rendered them dark and of much less value to the Plaintiffs.

THE PLAINTIFFS CLAIM

1.—A declaration that the Plaintiffs are entitled to free access of light and air over British Consular Lot No. 117 to the windows in the buildings on British Consular Lot No. 117C facing Lot No. 117.

2.—An order that the Defendants move the said fence.

3.—An injunction to restrain the Defendants and their agents from placing any erection on the said Lot No. 117 so as to be a nuisance to the Plaintiffs or to obstruct or dimish the access of light and air over British Consular Lot No. 117 to the said windows or any of them.

4. Damages.

5. Costs.

Counsel for the plaintiffs having read the statement of claim as given above, then proceeded to read affidavits made by Mr. Tam Wa, one of the plaintiffs, and by Mr. Richard Maxwell Saker, a director of the defendant firm.

These are as follows:

MR. TAM WA'S AFFIDAVIT

1. The Plaintiffs Society is the registered owner of British Consular Lot No. 177C. I have purchased the said lot from the Society and am the beneficial owner thereof. The buildings on the said lot are now in occupation of the plaintiffs Society as tenants of mine.

2. The Defendants are a British company and the registered owners of British Consular Lot No. 117 situate immediately to the west of the said lot 117C.

3. The Plaintiff society being desirous of selling the said lot 117C in or about the months of April and May invited tenders from purchasers. Among others both the defendants and I tendered for such lot and my tender being the highest was accepted.

4. On or about the 26th May, 1920 immediately after I had purchased the said lot 117C I was asked by the Defendants' compradore if I would sell the same. I declined and he asked me what I was going to do about light. I said I had not looked into the question. He suggested I should buy a piece of lot 117 to make my piece square and I said I would consider it.

5. The next day I saw him and he specified a piece and the price for it but I declined saying the price was too high, I suggested that he should submit prices at which I should sell lot 117C or buy a portion of lot 117 and he agreed and I asked him to mark the portion and prices on a plan.

6. The next day he showed me a plan with the prices marked. I elected to purchase the portion shown of lot 117 but he demurred and we never came to terms.

7. On or about June 11, 1920, plaintiff society received a letter from the defendants which is now produced and shown to me marked T.W. 1.

8. On or about June 22, 1920, my solicitors on my instructions wrote to the defendants a copy whereof is now produced and shown to me marked T.W.2.

9. No reply was received from the defendants.

10. On the afternoon of Saturday, June 26 and on Sunday, June 27 the defendants erected or caused to be erected a fence about 8 feet high along the boundary between the two lots 117 and 117C and extending to the greater part of such boundary.

11. Neither I nor the plaintiff society were aware that the defendants intended to erect such fence on such days nor had we any opportunity to take steps to prevent or restrain them and the said fence was erected in a very short time and with unusual despatch.

12. The said fence obscured and still obscures all windows in the said buildings and on the ground floor thereof and obstracts the access of light thereto.

13.—I commenced this action on the 3rd July, 1920. On the 5th July, my solicitors on my instructions wrote to the defendants a letter a copy whereof is now produced shown to me marked "T. W. 3." and on or about the 7th July, 1920 my solicitors received from the defendants' solicitors a letter which is now produced and shown to me marked "T. W. 4."

14.—I am advised and verily believe that the facts alleged in the statement of claim herein can be established and that they constitute a good cause of action and a right to the relief sought.

DEFENDANTS' AFFIDAVIT

I, Richard Maxwell Saker of No. 4 Peking Road, Shanghai, Surveyor, hereby make oath and say as follows:

1.—I am a Director of the Defendant Company.

2.—The fence referred to in the Affidavit of the Plaintiff Tam Wa filed herein on the 23rd July, 1920, only reaches to aproximately half way up the windows of the Plaintiff's building and the access of light and air thereto is not seriously obstructed.

3. Negotiations are proceeding for the sale of the Defendants' property and any order for removal of the fence pending the hearing of this action would be calculated to cause serious damage since intending purchasers would led to believe that a right to light had been established by the plaintiffs and that the owner of defendants' property would be unable to build thereon.

4. I am advised and verily believe that the plaintiffs' buildings have no right to light and that no such right as appurtenant to a building is known in China.

Natives Of Bambio Kill Giant Gorilla

This giant gorilla, killed by the natives in the forest of Bambio, French Cameroons, was nine feet four inches high and weighed 622 pounds. Its hand, cut off at the wrist, weighed ten pounds. The natives celebrated their victory over the beast, as gorillas are extremely destructive and dangerous. The skeleton of the huge beast will be placed in the Paris Museum of Natural History, it is said.

So Crisp —and Delicious, too!

There are definite reasons why the New Post Toasties are vastly superior in crispness and flavour to any other corn flakes.

In the new process of baking, intense heat raises tiny air "puffs" on each flake, bringing out a decidedly new and delicious flavour—the true flavour of the corn—unknown to the corn flakes of the past.

Owing to this new process the New Toasties maintain their crispness until eaten and do not grow soft and mushy in the bowl like other corn flakes.

The flavour is so delightfully pleasant that the New Post Toasties may be eaten and relished dry, though of course they are generally served with cream, rich milk, or fruit with a sprinkling of sugar.

FOREIGNERS PROTEST TAX LEVIES MADE BY CHINESE

Firms In Hankow File Long Brief Against New "Outrage"

"ABNORMAL; ALL WRONG"

Declare That China Has No Right To Impose Taxes Inside Concessions

(China Press Correspondence)

Hankow, July 26, 1920.—The American and British Chambers of Commerce of Hankow recently lodged vigorous protest with the Chinese Government regarding the proposed Chinese taxation in the Special Administrative District, ex-German concession of Hankow.

The following is the text of another protest signed by all the foreign firms in the ex-German concession and sent to Mr. A. Segawa, Consul-General for Japan, and Doyen of the Consular Corps in Hankow, for submission to the various Consuls represented in Hankow for transmission to their respective Legations at Peking:

"A. Segawa, Esquire,
Japanese Consul-General and Senior Consul, Hankow.
July 9, 1920.

"Sir: We have the honor to refer to our letter of January 20, 1920, regarding the future status of the ex-German concession at Hankow; and to inform you that a further meeting of the principal lot-holders was held on the 8th of July, to consider the fresh developments of the situation that have arisen through the promulgation of Presidential Mandates Nos. 24 and 25 dated 19th December, 1919, which embody certain regulations applying to the transfer of property under Chinese jurisdiction, evidently including the ex-German concessions.

TRANSFER FEES

"The immediate incident which necessitated the summoning of the latter meeting was the action of the Chinese Government in demanding transfer fees, in accordance with the terms of these mandates, on Lots 17 and 18 of the ex-German concession here, sold by the Hankow Wharf and Godown Company, Limited, to the Pacific Mail Steamship Company —two purely foreign concerns— who, we understand, have not agreed to payment of the tax demanded.

"It is our considered opinion that the action of the Chinese Government is highly objectionable and prejudicial to our interests for the following reasons:

"(1.) As long as we are in full enjoyment of our extra-territorial rights we cannot admit taxation by the Chinese Government for purely Chinese purposes; and that this taxation is intended for purely Chinese purposes is proved by the fact that the sums collected under these mandates are to be remitted to the Ministry of Finance at Peking. In other words, they have nothing to do with this Settlement.

MUST NOT DIVERT

"(2.) It follows, from the foregoing, that any sums collected on such transfers must, in our opinion, be for the account and benefit of this Settlement; and in this connection we adhere to the opinion expressed by us consistently—that we can sanction no taxation except by the properly constituted Municipal Authority, in which our interests are adequately represented and protected. It would be for such Municipal Authority to decide whether such a tax is to be levied, how it is to be assessed, and to what purposes the proceeds are to be devoted.

"3. The charge stipulated by the Chinese Government is in any case outrageous. Under German administration the rates used to be 2/10 percent of the value of the property to be transferred. According to the Mandates referred to, it will, in future, be 6 percent—or 30 times the former amount. The building tax will be 7 percent, whereas formerly a nominal charge of 1/4 percent, of the value on the materials used, was generally collected; so that the new Chinese taxation on the erection of new buildings will be 28 times more than what is being paid at present in the other foreign concessions at Hankow. Seeing that the financial condition of the German municipality was known to be satisfactory, and the very fact that the Chinese Government should charge 30 and 28 times more, respectively, merely proves that there is not the slightest intention on their part to devote the proceeds of the tax to the improvement of the Settlement.

EDGE OF THE WEDGE

"4. Apart from the seriousness of the point actually at issue, we wish to point out that the attempt to levy this tax on foreign interests in an ex-German concession is neither more nor less than the thin edge of the wedge. If the Chinese are to be allowed, on one occasion, to tax us for interests having no concern whatsoever with those of the Settlement, there is no possible limit to the burden of taxation which the Central Government may impose upon us for the benefit of Peking; and, as it is a well-established fact that the Chinese Government will attempt to collect its revenue from the most prosperous section of the community, we have every reason to fear that any weakening on our part in this matter may eventually—and we may say rapidly—result in our being taxed out of existence. We decline to tolerate a precedent so utterly detrimental to our interests.

"UTTERLY INTOLERABLE"

"We avail ourselves of this opportunity to draw your attention to the fact that an utterly intolerable situation is being created for foreign property owners in the ex-German concessions of Hankow, by the failure of the Chinese Government to take any practical steps toward the realisation of its oft-repeated promise that proper municipal bodies be constituted and the rights of foreigners safeguarded.

"The Chinese Government has given assurances that, whatever the eventual decision regarding the administration of this concession, the interests of foreign property-owners would be fully secured; and that we would not under any circumstances fare worse than under the ex-German administration.

"It seems to us that the attempted enforcement of this taxation on British and American interests shows that the present Chinese Government has not the slightest intention of fulfilling these promises; and we would respectfully draw your attention to the gross infringement of our extra-territorial rights with which we are manaced.

"It was under extra-territorial rights that we acquired and developed these properties, and we cannot tolerate any weakening of the position these rights confer upon us.

MAY STOP PROGRESS

"We have also to draw your attention to the fact that large schemes, involving very considerable expenditure, are at present being carried out by certain property owners.

"These schemes will have to be suspended if property-owners are not guaranteed full immunity from Chinese interference; and property-owners will, in fact, have to consider the advisability of disposing of their present properties, even at a loss, and transferring their interests to other and safer areas before they may suffer irreparable harm.

"For the reasons we have stated in this latter, we respectfully request that action be taken which will insure the immediate solution of the whole problem in a manner consonant with our acquired rights and commensurate with our interests.

"We have the honor to remain, Sir,

"Very respectfully yours,
(Signatures of foreign firms).

ANOTHER PRECIOUS LITTLE LIFE SAVED

How Baby's Own Tablets Safeguard The Children Against Summer Ills.

Every mother knows how fatal the hot summer months are to small children. Cholera infantum, diarrhoea, dysentery and stomach troubles are rife at this time, and often a precious little life is lost after only a few hours' illness.

The mother who keeps Baby's Own Tablets, the Canadian children's remedy, in the house feels safe. The occasional use of these Tablets prevents stomach and bowel troubles, and if sickness comes suddenly they help bring the little one through. Mrs. John N. Pringle, Forest Falls, Ontario, Canada, writes:—"I think I can thank Baby's Own Tablets for my baby's life. He was badly constipated, but after giving him the Tablets they relieved him almost at once. I also find them good when he is at all restless and I cannot say too much in their favour."

Baby's Own Tablets make teething easy, are a positively harmless remedy for simple fever, indigestion, colic, constipation, diarrhoea and worms. Obtainable from druggists, also, post free, 60 cents the vial, from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., 96 Szechuen Road, Shanghai.

CALIFORNIA BOYS LOSE THIRD GAME

Glee Club Men Are Unable To Hit Claire—Viola Tells About It

BY VIOLA VERCLAIRE

Shanghai defeated the California Glee Club team for the third time yesterday. The collegians' outfield errors were largely responsible for the home team's big score. The college boys were unable to connect with Claire's pitching. The big fellow pitched a beautiful game, letting the visitors down with but one hit, a Texas leaguer by Strickfaden in the seventh inning.

Oh dear, it promised to be so exciting. And then to have those dear, honest-to-goodness California boys with us, their blue and gold in evidence, made me feel as if I were back in "dear old California."

It is just splendid for boys as clever as these are, with their voices and instruments, to be able to go out and seemingly forget to care whether they have ten fingers or two, left to play those music boxes so wonderfully.

When one of them slides half way from third to home, I surely expect him to get up with some broken bones. And such a relief, when he simply walks off, brushing the dust from his suit, and ready for more. Just like our "Dough boys," only this is all in fun and the other was so serious; but the spirit is there.

HERE'S SUGGESTION

The remark was made by one of the U. of C. boys that yesterday was the hottest day in two years. It was quite hot enough, and I'm sure no one will contradict him, as every one in the grandstand was wilted. It wouldn't be a bad idea to carry an extra complete change of wearing apparel, in your vanity case girls, if this keeps up—along with loads of powder and rouge, of course, which by the way is impossible to keep on to any advantage.

The game started off in whirlwind fashion, Claire striking out the first two men facing him. The third man went out on an easy chance, Bills to Wilhoit. The California boys came right back in their half of the inning, throwing Shanghai's first three men out in order.

The second inning was somewhat different, the home boys scoring six runs, on four errors, a hit batter, a base on balls and a hit by Bills.

Shanghai scored seven more runs during the game, but the College boys never quit trying. They did their best right up until the last man was out.

There will be no game today, but Saturday, the long delayed series, between the Bolsheviki and the Regulars will begin, game called at 3:30 p.m. Games between these two teams will be played on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays of each week until the series is finished.

Commander Dodge, of the Bolsheviki, has squared all accounts with his men and they are to accept roubles. He says the safety razor stuff and everything will go on just as if nothing had happened. The Commander says that he had a game scheduled for his men against the College Glee Club, but they have asked to have it called off on account of wet suits.

On Sunday, at 3:30 p.m., the Destroyer Lee team will cross bats with the Bolsheviki. The sailor boys have been practicing faithfully since their defeat on Wednesday, and will probably give the Bolsheviki all they want in the way of baseball.

A series of games with the Tientsin team is almost a certainty—Doc Down having been in correspondence with "Brad" Crow of that city for some time and Doc. says he is going to bring the Tientsin aggregation to Shanghai as soon as the existing warring conditions will allow, which will probably be during the month of August.

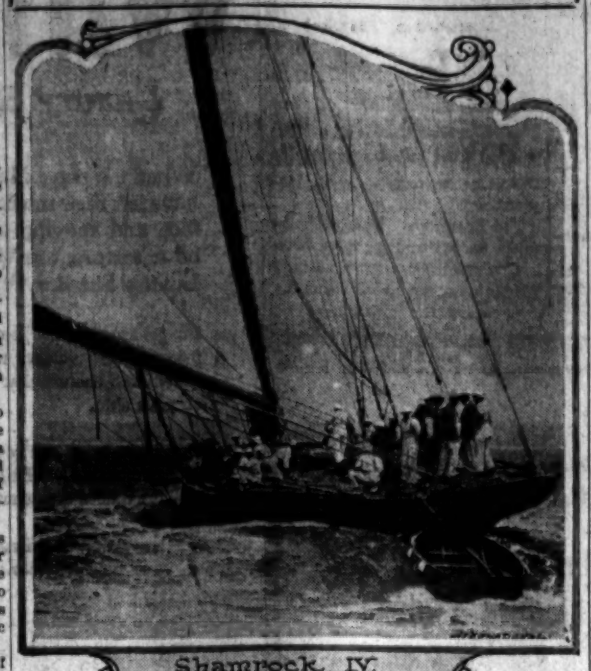
And Here's The Loser!



Shamrock IV.

Sir Thomas Lipton's unsuccessful challenger for the "America's" cup, snapped as she was shaking out her canvas for an initial spin over the Sandy Hook course.

Shamrock IV is considered an ideal speed boat for fresh or stiff-wind sailing, but was beaten by Resolute's adaptibility to the light zephyrs which prevailed during the latter part of the match.

(Reuter's Service)

Sandy Hook, N. Y. July 27.—Shamrock led for two-thirds of the way to the outer buoy but Resolute then caught a favoring wind and crossed the challenger's bow. After this the American boat gained steadily and crossed the line 13 mins. 5 secs. ahead of Shamrock.

"I am sorry," Sir Thomas said, after the race, "But the best boat has won. We have all done our damnedest.

"The Americans are fine sportsmen.

"I shall wait till next year, to give someone else a chance, and then I shall challenge again."

Lawn Bowls

(BY "SKIP")

Good progress has been made in the Championship events and all are now in the interesting stages. The fourth and semi-final rounds in the Singles have now been drawn and in these we are promised a series of "dour" struggles.

It is curious that since its official inception in 1913 no player has ever recorded two wins in the Singles Championship, the nearest to attain this honor being O. Crewe Read (winner in 1916 and runner-up to J. Shaw the following year), and with the elimination of past Champions J. Shaw, R. C. Aitkenhead and A McGregor, who all made their exit in the second round this season another new name falls to be inscribed on the Cup. To "spot" this season's winner is a very difficult matter, but I fancy Stormes very strongly with Guy Manwaring or A. S. Allan runner-up.

The results of the Pairs semi-final are likewise shrouded in uncertainty. It is worthy of note that no less than three Yangtszepoo Club pairs still survive, two of which have to meet of course and it is therefore certain that this Club will provide one of the finalists if not two. The McMurdo-Aitkenhead match against Campbell and Ross Young should be the tit bit of the season and is billed to be played at Hongkew Park next Monday evening.

FINAL ON SUNDAY

To local bowling enthusiasts all roads will lead to Hongkew Park on Saturday afternoon for there the final of the Rink Championship will be played. The teams represent the Shanghai Lawn Bowls Club and the Recreation Club and are captained by G. L. Campbell and "Bert" Stormes respectively.

Although no players on either side can be said to command the personality of a "Geordie" McMurdo or the same respect on the greens so worthily earned by his co-stalwarts of "Big Four" fame, yet most of the players have already made their reputations in local bowling circles. The opposing skips were runners-up in the all Shanghai Singles in 1918 and 1919 respectively, whilst James Munro is an ex-Hankow Singles Champion.

In virtue of the fact that the same L. B. C. rink carried off the Championship last season (except that G. L. Campbell takes the position of skip held by C. M. Bain who is at present on holiday in the old country), they will start favorites for the event, but a close and interesting match is confidently expected. Given fine weather there should be a big crowd tomorrow afternoon. The match starts at 4 p.m. The players are

G. L. Campbell (skip), J. Buckley, W. B. Pitt, J. Munro.

RECS.

G. B. Stormes (skip), G. Ackerman, E. Fanstone, T. Veitch.

INTER-CLUB MATCHES

Two inter-club matches are down for decision on Sunday, the Lawn Bowls Club visiting Hongkew Park to meet the Junior Golf Club and the Recs being at home to the Yangtszepoo Bowling Club. In the former game only four rinks will play on each side but at the Racecourse there will be five.

The Recs have put up some wonderful performances this season and much is expected from them, but I doubt if they will repeat their performance of May when they defeated the Waysiders. At Hongkew Park the visitors are very strong and should win easily but the Junior Golf Club have a knack of cropping up when least expected. Anyway let us hope we will have a fine week end for a change. Here are the teams for Sunday:

A. Braid (skip), W. S. Featherstonhaugh, J. Rush, F. George.

GARDNER LOSES BRITISH GOLF FINAL TO TOLLEY

American Has Title Within Grasp, But Is Beaten On Thirty-seventh Hole

BOTH PLAY GREAT GAME

Loser Fights Doggedly And Comes From Behind In Second Round

Muirfield, Scotland, June 11 (Associated Press).—After having had the British amateur golf championship laurels all but within his grasp, Robert A. Gardner of Chicago today went down to defeat when he lost to Cyril Tolley of the Oxford University team in the finals after a hard-fought, sensational match which was all square at the 36th hole and necessitated the playing of an extra hole.

The match was a battle royal from the start, but at the end of the first round Gardner was two up and bade fair to fulfill the predictions of experts that he would capture the championship. In the second round, however, Tolley forged ahead and was three up on his opponent with only four to play. Gardner fought doggedly and amidst intense excitement on the part of the spectators made it all square at the 36th, only to lose the extra hole.

BIG CROWD PRESENT

Public interest in the match was at the highest pitch. This was the second time in the history of the championships that an American had reached the finals. Not since Walter J. Travis bent Edward Blackwell for the championship in 1904 and a Yankee got so far as Gardner, despite repeated invasions from across the water.

Fully 3,000 persons watched the match. Walter Hagen and Jim Barnes, the American professionals, who yesterday defeated two English professionals in a golf match at Croydon, England, traveled all night to be present.

Tolley is only twenty-one years old and this was the first time he had reached a championship final. He is powerfully built, hits a very long ball and played throughout the series with the greatest care.

Gardner was very accurate with his long approach putts today, but failed sadly with some of the short ones. He led at the end of the first round, but the turning point came at the fifth and sixth holes of the second half, both of which he threw away on the green. He thereby lost the lead, and for a few holes seemed to lose his nerve. But when the American became three down with four to go, he played with renewed determination.

Having a temporary relapse in his putting, Tolley was brought back to dormie one and lost the home hole, where he was first in trouble, and then in a bunker. Gardner put his tee shot to the 37th on the green, nine yards to the left of the pin. Tolley, however, played a beauty only four yards short of the hole and got the putt after Gardner had laid his second a yard from the pin. Gardner thus had a par three, but Tolley won the hole in a birdie 3 and took the match.

FEATURES OF GAME

The loser received almost as great an ovation as the winner.

Tolley won the first hole in the morning round but Gardner took the next three. Tolley won the fifth and the next was halved. This made Gardner 2 up. By holing long putts on the eighth and ninth the Oxford man evened the match at the turn. Gardner won the tenth and they halved the next. The American found a bunker going to the twelfth, which he lost, and Tolley took the lead when he won on the next green. Gardner ran down a seven-yard putt on the fourteenth and they were all square. The fifteenth was halved but Tolley missed a putt on the sixteenth which went to Gardner, who also won the seventeenth. As the eighteenth was halved the American visitor was 2 up at the finish of the first half of the match.

In the afternoon round Gardner lost his lead early in the play, and the match was all square on the twenty-third hole. At this stage Tolley was outplaying the visitor and at the turn (twenty-seventh hole) Gardner was 2 down.

The first hole in the second half was halved. Gardner pulled into the rough at the second and lost, leaving Tolley 1 down. The third hole was halved, Tolley putting finally after overrunning the green. Tolley took a hard half at the fourth and Gardner missed a four-foot putt at the fifth, where the match was squared. Gardner thus far had not played as steadily as in the forenoon.

Tolley, after being in the rough, had a nice run up and Gardner missed a putt, giving Tolley the lead, which he kept by cleverly pitching over a stymie at the seventh and securing a half. Gardner was bunkered near the green at the eighth but made a fine recovery, snatching a half.

Gardner was near the wall going to the ninth and Tolley, playing perfectly, turned homeward 2 up. The next two holes were halved. Both competitors were in trouble at the twelfth, which also was halved, leaving Tolley 2 up and 6 to play.

The cards read:

FIRST ROUND.

Mother Hurls Her Baby To Death Under Auto

Mrs. Mary Marino and her four-year-old daughter, Evangelina, whom she hurled under a fast moving automobile to her death. Mrs. Marino, whose home is in Brooklyn, declared that she meant to kill herself. She blames her act on the refusal of her husband to live with her any longer. Mrs. Marino was returning with her husband from the Domestic Relations Court in Brooklyn, where each had made charges against the other. The two were talking loudly and attracted the attention of passers-by. While dozens looked on Mrs. Marino pushed her little girl into the path of an oncoming touring car. She tried to throw herself before the auto, but was prevented. The child was knocked down and later died from a fractured skull. Mrs. Marino is being held on a charge of homicide. She is in a state of collapse and it is feared she will go insane.

Find A Safeguard For X-Ray Users

Paris, June 20.—Patient researches covering a period of five years may result in the perfecting of a method which will prevent further martyrdom to X-ray science, which has heretofore caused dangerous burns and even the loss of lives to radiologists.

A method devised by M. Pech, a French scientist, consists in surrounding the operator with infra red rays while he works with the X-ray apparatus. M Pech has proved to his satisfaction that violet and ultra violet rays are eariy neutralised by the ipfras of the opposite end of the spectrum. M. Berthelot of the French Academy of Science presented the Pech discovery to his confreres. Ample experiments on this new method will be carried out in the Paris Hospital laboratories next month.

Caruso's Home, Where Half Million In Gems Were Stolen; Wife And Her Sister

Although the authorities have found no trace of the half million dollars' worth of gems stolen from the home of Enrico Caruso, premier operatic star, at East Hampton, L. I., they have intimated they were on the point of making an arrest. It is the belief of the police working on the case that it was an "inside job." Another theory is that the thief or thieves took the gems several days before the theft was discovered, having tampered with the bell attached to the strong box which held the gems, so it would not ring. The burglary is the largest ever reported in New York. The large photograph shows the home of the famous tenor at East Hampton, and in the inset is shown Mrs. Caruso and her sister-in-law, Mrs. Park Benjamin, Jr., who was with her at the time the burglary was discovered.

Dock And Engineering Company Holds Meeting

The fourteenth annual general meeting of the Shanghai Dock and Engineering Company was held yesterday when payment of dividends making a total return to shareholders of twenty percent was duly authorised as recommended by the directorate. The Chairman's report was as follows:

ANNUAL REPORT

"Gentlemen, The report and accounts having been in your hands for some days, with your permission, we will take them as read.

"Difficulties and delays in getting materials were greater than during the previous year, causing considerable delay in carrying on and completion of work.

"The three Standard Steamers "C" Class for H. M's. Government, were all completed and delivered during the year. The first left here on December 10, 1919, the second on June 4 and the third on July 30 of this year.

"The Surveyers for H. M's. Government, Lloyd's Surveyor and the Representative of the present owners all expressed themselves as satisfied with the steamers and the results of the trials. Good reports have been received of the first two and we expect to hear soon from the owner's representative about the third which is now on the voyage to her loading port in the Nether lands Indies.

"During the year we carried out a considerable amount of new shipbuilding, new engine and boiler work, repairs and renewals.

"The result of the year's working is very good indeed and shows a very large increase over that of the previous year.

"The net profit for the year including the amount brought forward from last year, amounts to Tls. 1,796,347.82.

"After paying an interim dividend in February last of Tls. 5.00 per share, absorbing Tls. 276,000, paying all charges and allowing for all known liabilities, there remains for distribution the sum of Tls. 1,430,347.82 which we recommend should be dealt with as follows:

Pay a final dividend of Tls. 15.00 per share making 20 percent for the year Tls. 828,000.00.

Place to special reserve Tls. 400,000.00.

Place to depreciation account Tls. 113,305.50.

Carry forward to new account Tls. 89,042.82.

"If the recommendation meets with your approval the Special Reserve will amount to Tls. 1,050,000.00 and the Depreciation Account to Tls. 600,000.00.

"Maintenance has in all departments, as usual, been charged to working account.

"We have at present a considerable amount of new and repair work on hand.

"Docking has been very good during the year. We some time ago decided to lengthen, deepen and widen the Cosmopolitan Dock and to carry out the work we engaged a civil engineer with a large experience in dock work, who arrived from home in May last and is now engaged in the preparation of plans for the carrying out of the work.

"A resolution to give £1,000 to the Sailors' War Orphan Fund will be put later and we feel sure it will meet with your approval.

"On leaving Shanghai Messrs. H. A. J. Macray and B. C. Richards resigned and the vacancies were filled by Messrs. H. W. Lester and C. Biron and these appointments require your confirmation.

"In accordance with the Memorandum and Articles of Association Messrs. B. S. F. McBain and C. Biron retire and offer themselves for re-election.

"The auditors Messrs. Lowe, Bingham and Matthews offer themselves for re-election.

"Before moving the adoption of the report and accounts I shall be pleased to answer any questions to the best of my ability."

Following the chairman's address the following resolutions were adopted:

No. 1 Proposed by Mr. John Prentice and seconded by Mr. A. Brooke Smith. That the directors' report and statement of accounts made up to April 30, 1920, as printed and circulated be adopted and passed, and that the directors be authorised to pay a final dividend of Taels Fifteen per share to shareholders on the register at date.

No. 2 Proposed by Mr. P. Crighton and seconded by Mr. W. G. Pirie. That the election of Mr. H. W. Lester as a director of the company be confirmed.

No. 3 Proposed by Mr. F. J. Burrett and seconded by Mr. A. A. Brady. That the election of Mr. C. Biron as a director of the company be confirmed.

No. 4 Proposed by Mr. M. K. Kempton and seconded by Mr. M. H. Logan. That Mr. R. S. F. McBain and Mr. C. Biron be re-elected directors of the company.

No. 5 Proposed by Mr. John Prentice and seconded by Mr. A. Brooke Smith. That the sum of One Thousand Pounds be donated to the Sailors War Orphans' Fund.

No. 6 Proposed by Mr. B. A. Clarke and seconded by Mr. Chun Nea-ching. That Messrs. Lowe, Bingham and Matthews be elected auditors of the company for the current year.

A Chinese Girl Student Addresses The Boy Students

FOR today's discourse we offer a very interesting letter from a foreign educated Chinese girl, Miss T. L. Kwei, who attacks the problem of foreign education for Chinese from a point of view which differs somewhat from that developed by the recent McTyeire School controversy. There is, beyond doubt, much truth in what Miss Kwei has to say about the Chinese family one member of which is a foreign educated student, that is, one who has been educated in a foreign school here or who has returned from studies abroad. Miss Kwei says:

"Ever since the coming of foreigners into China, China has undergone a steady change. Many things have doubtlessly improved to a certain extent, but there is one thing which has been greatly injured by foreign influence and that is the Chinese home. The influence itself is not to be blamed, but the way the Chinese try to put the western ideas into practice is wrong. It has smothered the very thing which, as Charles Kingsley has said, makes a home Home.

"Many students who have studied English at all dove to dress themselves like foreigners—high heels, overcoats and hats. When they attend tea-parties they frequently talk English. Either they want to shame their neighbors who do not understand English or they want to display their mastery of the English language; I do not know. When they are among Chinese, even with their own home folks, they like to act like foreigners. They sing and read but do not care to mingle in family talks or work, as if they were of no consequence. Oh! How absurd! Are they not members of the family? Ought they not to take interest in their own family affairs? Very often a father or mother says to his or her friends, my child is just like a foreigner. It is meant to be a compliment yet I think it ought to make one ashamed of oneself than otherwise. Thus by trying to dress, talk and act like foreigners, the students not only fail to perform their duty—to uplift Chinese homes, but they exclude themselves from the rest of the family and thus they serve more as a hindrance than as a help.

"The grand gentlemen who have returned from foreign countries inflict even more harm to the Chinese homes. As many of them are either engaged or married before they go, they either pay no attention to their poor wives by not talking to them or their children on their return or they break their engagements or seek divorces which mean isolation for the rest of the lives of their young wives who are guilty of nothing except ignorance of the English language. And some go still further, they never return, but establish themselves in foreign countries with foreign wives, forgetting their duty to their parents and their pledge to their legally married wives.

"These actions have done greater harm than anything else for the deserted young wives or fiancees think, as all Chinese do, except for those who cause the unhappiness, that it is a very mean thing for young women to get married twice. (This is why China has more widows than foreign countries.) So the grand gentlemen instead of trying to raise the mode of living in their homes and helping to develop their wives minds as all human minds are capable of being developed, and remaining good, filial sons to please their parents, they do them notorious wrongs and smother the very life which constitutes a home—happiness.

"I do not mean that all students and returned students do these things, but alas! many, many of them do. I have seen too much around me and I have heard far more. So, educated young men and women of China, you are unintentionally hurting China. China is to be saved only by the Chinese, not by any other nation in the wide, wide world. Chinese homes are to be improved only by the Chinese in a Chinese way and not by any entire foreign method. Gather the good points in foreign homes and introduce these into Chinese homes in a suitable Chinese fashion so as not to cause a sensation. Do not attempt to dress, talk and act like foreigners if it only serves to exclude you from the rest of your family and above all do not destroy the lives of your young wives. As everyone of you wants to strengthen China, first create living, happy homes. Living homes make a living country. If not, you are not only ungrateful to your home folks, but also unpatriotic to the country we all love—China.

"My reader perhaps likes to ask, why do you write this article in English if you put so much emphasis on Chinese fashions and Chinese method? Well, it is not hard to answer. I do so because I know there are many young students who prefer English newspapers rather than the Chinese. And as I truly and sincerely hope this will serve as a word to remind those who unconsciously commit the above mistakes, I want them to read this and to realise their part in the uplift of the Chinese home."

A Chinese member of THE CHINA PRESS staff who is a graduate of an American university, declares that the observations of Miss Kwei are authentic and that Chinese boys who are going abroad to study ought not to become engaged to marry and certainly ought not to be allowed to marry until after their return.

As to her criticisms of the way these boys conduct themselves in their own homes we have nothing to say beyond this, that it is not due to their education but to the way they apply it. We should like to hear from the students themselves as to what they think of Miss Kwei's remarks.

THE MOTOR BULLY

Editor, THE CHINA PRESS

Sir:—Two well known Shanghai residents one of them a public official gave evidence at the American Court on Tuesday last which led to the conviction for reckless driving of a young American man who admitted that he was travelling at the rate of between 30 and 35 miles an hour within 30 yards of the turning into Great Western Road extension along Edinburgh Road and therefore within a few hundred yards only of two groups of Chinese houses around which there are always children playing.

He also admitted that he passed another car traveling in the same direction on the wrong side of the road. His reason for the latter was truly ingenious, "that he did so in order to avoid running down two pedestrians coming in the opposite direction." It obviously never occurred to him that he might have slowed down or even have stopped his car for that object. He sounded his hooter loudly when he was right on to the other car and if there had been time for the latter to do the usual thing and turn onto the riding road to allow the overtaking car to pass there must have been a terrible smash up.

I note in today's paper, what is becoming quite a standing dish in your columns, two deaths caused by motor cars are recorded. The Municipal Police are doing their very utmost at the present time to put a stop to this motor bullying—for it is nothing less. Yet, in spite of all this the young person in question was merely fined $10 and costs in the American Court; the maximum fine is $100 or one month's imprisonment. What can you expect?

I am, etc.,

LINCOLN OR LLOYD GEORGE?

"He is sometimes claimed as an example of a ready-made ruler. But no case could well be less to the point; for, besides that he was a man of such fair-mindedness as is always the raw material of wisdom, he had as his profession a training precisely the opposite of that to which a partisan is subjected. His experience as a lawyer compelled him not only to see that there is a principle underlying every phenomenon in human affairs, but that there are always two sides to every question, both of which must be fully understood in order to understand either, and that it is of greater advantage to an advocate to appreciate the strength than the weakness of his antagonist's position.

"He won his case before a jury of the people.

"His wisdom was made up of a knowledge of things as well as of men. The cautious, but steady, advance of his policy during the war was like that of a Roman army. He left behind him a firm road on which public confidence could follow.

"The very homeliness of his genius was its distinction. His kingship was conspicuous by its workday, homespun. The imputation of inconsistency is one to which every sound politician and every honest thinker must sooner or later subject himself.

"The foolish and the dead alone never change their opinion."

Goddard Rivals Jules Verne In Plan For Sending A Rocket To The Moon

Will Worcester be the scene for another act or incident of that thrilling drama in the history of the world—the romance of modern invention? Already bulletins are being issued by the National Geographic Society and other scientific organisations calling the attention of the public to the plans of Prof. Robert L. Goddard of Clark University to send a rocket to the moon—plans which once again recall the prophetic writings of Jules Verne, who, many years ago, pictured that imaginary trip "From the Earth to the Moon in 97 Hours."

Although Dr. Goddard has at present no intention of making a rocket which will carry a passenger, he has already had fifteen letters of application from persons who offer themselves as volunteers for a trip to the moon. The applicants are of a variety of types, some of them apparently "freaks," others young men of adventurous spirit, and others are women. One man wrote that he did not care whether or not the rocket could make a return trip. Apparently the idea of being shot off into the eternity of space and time in a projectile bound for the moon appealed to his imagination, minimising the value of life on this sphere.

VISIONS BROUGHT TO MIND

The very thought of Prof. Goddard's confident attempt to send his message out beyond the borders which have contained human endeavor in the past brings to mind two visions:

The great unexplored realms of the universe, upon which Jules Verne now might, starting from a scientific fact, build up a new fairyland of possibilities just as he so often did, and, on the other hand, the many true tales of the struggles, the discouragement and the disappointment of the inventors of the past. For if Verne, as the secretary of the French Academy so aptly expressed it in 1872 "replaced the well known wonders of fairyland by a new and more marvellous world, created from the most recent ideas of science," so also can the true stories of inventions be compared to the myths of fairyland, in which are to be found not only miraculous changes, spirits of unseen power, but dragons and ogres and Cinderellas, and the poverty and suffering through which heroes and heroines must fight their way before coming to the magic happy ending.

Prof. Goddard has now arrived at the point where lack of funds is the ogre threatening the success of his venture. It is a familiar ogre in the history of invention.

The two trials of the inventor are a sceptical world and an empty pocketbook. Only $1,200 of the fund subscribed for Dr. Goddard's work is now left to carry on his experiment. "I have tried out the rocket for a few successive charges," he said recently in telling of its present status, "and I found it to work. The physicists agree with me that it is in every way practicable. As it will go over a short range, so it will go over a long range. The only impediment now is that of funds. The first rocket will cost much more than any other, for we must continually experiment, making and discarding part after part until we have each one exactly right."

The general principle of the rocket is to have it propelled by a series of explosions. This has hitherto been deemed impossible because of the weight of the projecting mechanism, but Dr. Goddard has greatly decreased this weight by having the projecting mechanism drop off after it has done its duty.

Like many inventors, Dr. Goddard showed a tendency toward his future line of work while a boy. "When I was a youngster, a senior at Tech, twelve years ago, I wrote up the idea of sending a rocket to the moon by radium as a speculation," Dr. Goddard said, "estimating the amounts of radium required, and submitted it to certain scientific publications. The return of the article, with the usual reply except in the case of Popular Astronomy, was, at that time certainly, to have been expected."

In 1907 he wrote an article in which he set forth the theory of automatic balancing of airplanes by gyroscope and steering by banking and warping wings. This idea he thought of in 1900, wrote it up seven years later and sold it to a journal for $10, which was all he ever made from it. It was laughed at then as the wildest and most impossible scheme, but it has since been adopted and developed somewhat by manufacturers of airplanes. The only satisfaction the scientist now has from it is the realisation that a former theory of his, held ridiculous at the time, has proved plausible and of practical value, and the hope that the present plans may eventually turn out equally well.

THE BASIC IDEA

Dr. Goddard states the basic idea of his present scheme in general terms as follows:

"Given a mass of explosive material of as great energy content as possible, what height can be reached if a large fraction of this material is shot downward on exploding, with as high a speed as possible? It is evident intuitively, that the height will be great if the fraction of material that remains is small and the velocity of the gases is high. Theory supports this conclusion.

"Incidentally it is worth mentioning that the rocket method is the only method of raising apparatus of any delicacy to great heights that is consistent with the known laws of mechanics and of common sense. A gun, in order not to produce an enormous force on the apparatus, would need to be of great length. Also matter and energy (as radiation pressure) are the only things that can be reacted against, relativity or no relativity.

"The most important of the immediate applications of the method is in providing a simple and, when sufficiently developed, inexpensive means of obtaining meteorological data at the 10 kilometer level. It is well recognised that this is the most important level for studying pressure, temperature, humidity and wind velocity; and for obtaining data soon after the ascent has been made is certainly of value in weather forecasting.

"At greater elevations the study of temperature, wind velocity and composition of the atmosphere is of scientific importance, as well as the study of the aurora, during the day as well as at night and the radiations from the sun that are otherwise absorbed by the atmosphere.

HITTING THE MOON

"Concerning the possibility of hitting the moon with a rocket, it has been argued, granting that the projection to such a distance can be made, there will be so many disturbing influences when the rocket passes through the point of zero force between the earth and moon (it would never, of course, go exactly through this point) that it will be very unlikely to continue in the proper direction to make a hit. In this connection I have already called attention to the photo-sensitive cell as a means of automatically guiding an apparatus toward or near a luminous object; the object in this case being the illuminated crescent of the moon. The steering must, of course, be accomplished by jets which add the proper velocity perpendicularly to the direction of motion.

"There is no doubt that a mass of flash powder, even of the order of a few pounds, exploding on the surface of the moon, would be visible in a telescope of one foot aperture on the earth, and even more clearly visible in a telescope of larger aperture. Tubes containing capsules of Victor flash powder were used to test this point. These flashes were fired in Auburn on a fairly clear night and were observed in Worcester. It was found that one-twentieth of a grain of Victor flash powder fired in vacuo could be seen at a distance of two and a quarter miles.

"Finally the point which has occasioned perhaps the most comment is the subject of volunteers, the apparatus under construction naturally being only large enough to carry light recording instruments, to save expense of development. Neither has anything yet been said as to the condition and the initial masses necessary if an apparatus is to double on its course and return. Yet there have been many volunteers, most of whom have desired no publicity."

THE SCEPTICAL WORLD

Dr. Goddard, like all real inventors, has his sceptical world with him, for he meets all manner of objections. To illustrate the absurdity of some of them he instances a letter from a man who is afraid the moon will blow up when the rocket hits it, apparently believing that it is actually about the size of a cartwheel—or is it a silver dollar?

That the world is not even more sceptical may be attributed to the fact that so many unbelievable inventions have forced themselves on human brains that the sense of being shocked is almost extinct. It is hard to realise how preposterous less than half a century ago seemed the romance of Jules Verne, "the expander of horizons, who was prophet, foreseer and forceteller of our great mechanical age."

His fancy no longer seems flighty." "Around the World in Eighty Days" has ceased to be an extravaganza, and the experiences of the Nautilus, while not actually enacted, have been rivalled by the submarines. The "Steam House" has its counterpart in more convenient form in the automobiles which overrun the entire civilised world, and "Robur the Conqueror" has an offspring in actuality in the aeroplane. Navigable balloons and huge aerial machines heavier than air, the telephone, moving pavements, stimulation by oxygen, the ocean liner, compressed air and compressed food were all existent in the clear sighted vision of the French author.

While scientists of his own time may have treated sneeringly as pseudo-scientific ravings his work, they recognise today that in his scientific fantasies was the essence of prophecy. Dr. Goddard, for instance, finds much of interest in "From the Earth to the Moon" and in comparing it with his own plans. "Of course, there is always one point in which Jules Verne's conceptions were weak," he said "Otherwise he would have been the most remarkable inventor of a possible mechanical contrivance. He saw that a boat could go under the sea, but there were flaws in his methods. He realised that electricity could be used for lighting and in a dozen other cases he foresaw what the inventor would eventually be able to build up by using the power which science had discovered.

"In the case of the trip to the moon his flaw was in shooting his projectile from the earth at such tremendous speed. Anybody in the cannon ball would be reduced to a jelly by the shock. My plan is to have a rocket instead of a cannon ball go slowly at first while it is affected by the force of gravity, and then to speed up gradually as the density of the air decreases. Aluminum was new in his day, however, and, he saw that this was the material to use, just as we understand it to be today.

"As a matter of fact, the effect of being shot in a cannon ball from Jules Verne's gun could be illustrated in the following way: The impulse or effect of the force and its duration would be the same as if a man struck a target with a speed of 2,000 feet a second, penetrating to a depth of 33 inches, and repeated this performance eighteen times."

In the light of the manner in which other of Jules Verne's prophecies have come true, in substance, if not in detail, it is interesting to reread once more that fascinating tale in which three men make the trip to the moon in ninety-seven hours, a trip which Dr. Goddard estimates it will take his rocket from three to four days, or from seventy-two to ninety-eight hours. This time he believes will be decreased later.

The attempt to communicate with the "Sun of the Wolves" Jules Verne places in America. After reviewing the fictitious stories of trips to the moon from David Fabricius and Jean Baudoin of the seventeenth century to Domingo Gonzales of Spain and Cyrano de Bergerac and Fontenetta of France, he tells of the stories on this subject by two Americans, Locke and Edgar Allan Poe, and concludes: It is reserved for the practical genius of Americans to establish a communication with the sidereal world." a probability which may now, like many others which he made, come true.

Verne's general theory is expressed by his hero, Barbicane, who says: "You know what progress artillery science has made during the last few years, and what a degree of perfection firearms of every kind have reached. Moreover you are well aware that in general terms the resisting power of cannon and the expansive force of gunpowder are practically unlimited. Well! Starting from this principle, I ask myself whether, supposing sufficient apparatus could be obtained, constructed upon the conditions of ascertained resistance, it might not be possible to project a shot up to the moon."

After the interruption of a thunder storm of applause, he concludes calmly: "Suffer me to finish. I have looked up the question in all its bearings, I have resolutely attacked it, and by incontrovertible calculations I find that a projectile endowed with an initial velocity of 12 000 yards a second, and aimed at the moon, must necessarily reach it. I have the honor, my brave colleague, to propose a trial of this little experiment."

VERNE'S SPEEDY START

It is in this initial velocity of 12,000 yards a second that his theory differs fundamentally from that of Dr. Goddard. Barbicane Verne's scientist, however, takes into account the fact that "in proportion as we recede from the earth the action of gravitation diminishes in the inverse ratio of the square of the distance; that is to say, at three times a given distance the action is nine times less. Consequently the weight of a shot will decrease and will become reduced to zero at the instant that the attraction of the moon exactly counterpoises that of the earth; that is to say, at forty-seven fifty-seconds of its passage. At that instant the projectile will have no weight whatever, and if it passes that point it will fall into the moon by the sole effect of the lunar attraction."

Thus Barbicane started his cannon ball at tremendous velocity, which he counted on decreasing so that it would take 83 hours and 20 minutes to reach the point in equilibrium when the attraction of the moon would be felt. He allows 13 hours 53 minutes and 20 seconds for the fall to the moon. Dr. Goddard's plan, however, is to start slowly until beyond the strong pull of the world's gravity, and then by successive explosions of increasing power to increase the speed so that the total time would be about the same. By these successive explosions Dr. Goodard can accomplish the result of seeing

Chess Prodigy To Visit America

Eight-Year-Old Warsaw Boy Has Defeated Europe's Best Players

Can a man's brain be contained in a child's immatured head?

This is the question the graybeards of Europe are asking each other, following the marvellous performances of Samuel Rzeschwski, the eight-year-old Warsaw prodigy, who is acclaimed a greater chess player even than Capablanca.

To look at him one would never suspect the mentality concealed behind his blue, gravely-questioning eyes. He is a blond, his head covered with curls, and he arrived in Paris the other day attired in a little sailor jacket from a pocket of which peeped—a top!

Small wonder the distinguished gathering of French chess devotees who met him at the station were staggered at the appearance of the boy whose progress through Europe since leaving Poland has been a sort of triumphant march.

Born at Lodz, he was taught by his father to play chess at five years old. The game fascinated him; all his spare moments he put in studying the board, puzzling out moves; and fifteen days later he astonished his father—himself one of the best players in Warsaw cafes—by beating him.

Gifted with a prodigious instinct and with a perfect memory, young Samuel speedily became known as unbeatable even by the very best players in Poland. He longed for further fields to conquer, and his father took him to Germany.

In Berlin the skeptics accorded him a scornful welcome. No child, said the German experts, could understand the intricate theories of chess, let alone beat the masters who had spent a lifetime studying the game.

Thereupon the child challenged the 100 best players in Germany. Ninety-two responded. But his time was limited. Ninety-two games might take as many days. So he coolly suggested playing the ninety-two experts in batches of six at a time.

They shrugged their shoulders—said it couldn't be done—but eventually agreed. And eight-year-old Samuel Rzeschewski beat all of them except one—an unrivalled feat which quieted the skeptics and established the boy's reputation for good.

At Amsterdam and Antwerp he played eighty games without losing one. At Brussels he played twenty games simultaneously twice—and lost only two of the forty games.

At the famous Regence Cafe, Avenue de l'Opera, home of the chess club of Paris, Samuel played the forty best players of Paris in two simultaneous games of twenty each and won every game, even though one of his opponents was a man who had a week before nearly beaten the famous Capablanca himself.

Rzechewski has now challenged Capablanca, the match to take place in London. Afterward he is going to America to humble the experts there.

On Making Sure!

There is nothing like making sure where one's health is concerned. Good health is the best guarantee that Life shall be a success. Now it is well-known that digestive disorders are the cause of more cases of ill-health than any other class of ailment. The digestive system is so extensive, so complex and so hard-worked, that its liability to derangement is not astonishing. Happily, however, many digestive ailments can be easily remedied. Happily, too, many digestions need never go wrong. You can make reasonably sure that your digestion will not fail you, even under trying conditions, if you get into the excellent way of taking Beecham's Pills. This "Wonderful Medicine"—as it has been called—does really work wonders with the digestive system. Beecham's Pills impart tone to the stomach, regulate the action of the liver and kidneys and gently stimulate the bowels into healthy activity. Get into the habit of making sure. Have recourse to Beecham's Pills at the first sign of digestive trouble. Make sure of your health by taking

Beecham's Pills.

If The Thyroid Is Tired

BY BRICE BELDEN, M. D.

Not only does that wonderful little gland in the neck possess its own inherent qualities but it also reveals a peculiar ability to stimulate and co-ordinate the functions of the other ductless glands, upon the activities of which so many important—indeed, vital—functions of the body depend.

The system of glands throughout the body furnishing the internal secretions which stimulate various physiological mechanisms has been compared to a cartwheel, in which the thyroid occupies the hub position, with its activities radiating through the various spokes representing other glands of the group. The rim of the wheel represents the final glandular tone.

What happens when a thyroid gland becomes chronically tired, and lies down on its job, as it were? This type of sabotage brings about the following symptoms:

First, mental sluggishness. Irritability from slight causes. General moodiness. Inability to concentrate. Forgetfulness and fatigue. Lack of confidence. Tendency to sleep a great deal. Morning heaviness, wearing off during the day.

There is a tendency for the hair to come out and for much dandruff to form. There is no brilliance to the hair, which is coarse, dry and dusty looking.

The head aches on slight effort, either over the brow or back of the head.

The eyes tend to sink in and are dull in expression. The outer part of the eyebrow tends to thin out. The outer half of the upper eyelid is likely to puff.

There is a tendency to catarrhal trouble in the nose, with the formation of crusts.

The lips are dry and cracked, and the teeth become soft and tend to decay. The tonsils are enlarged and attacks of tonsilitis are frequent.

These patients are susceptible to colds and are slow in recovering. There is a tendency to Winter cough.

There is a tendency to gain weight. The smaller joints crackle easily. The skin is dry and thick and scales easily. Eczema is common. There is but little perspiration. The nails become ridged, thickened and frail.

The heart beats sluggishly, and the extremities are cold and damp. Cold weather is very badly borne.

Happily, medical science now possesses the means of combating this condition most successfully.

Goddard Rivals Jules Verne In Plan For Sending A Rocket To The Moon

the projectile at a great distance, while the writer of fiction found it necessary to make his cannon ball of enormous dimensions. Both, however, decided upon aluminum, which, in the words of Barbicane, "possesses the whiteness of silver, the indestructibility of gold, the tenacity of iron, the fusibility of copper, the lightness of glass."

And then comes the startling discovery that the projectile if made of this material will cost $173,050, which brings us back to the subject of the financial struggle which always accompanies invention.

"Of all things in life there is nothing more foolish than inventing," said James Watt in a moment of despondency after long years of discouraging labor over the steam engine, and again on January 31, 1770, he wrote: "Today I enter into the forty-fifth year of my life, and I think I have hardly done thirty-five pence worth of good in the world."

Such moments seem to come often to inventors, who must work against great odds and the scepticism of the world until the very moment of triumph, for their measure of success is not distributed along their pathway, but comes in a lump after the final victory. Edison lost one position after another because of his dabbling with inventions. "Competent but unreliable," was the unanimous verdict of his employers, of whom he had many in the years before he achieved success.

Morse came within an ace of seeing his telegraph cast aside because of lack of funds, and after working eight years he believed that he would have to give it up because of the failure of Congress to pass a bill of $30,000, which was the sum he asked for to enable him to construct between Baltimore and Washington the first telegraph line in America.

While his bill was pending the inventor passed through all the alternations from hope to despair, for after its passage by the lower House it was buried underneath those bills having priority in the Senate, so that to reach it in the few remaining days of the session seemed an impossibility. On the last day Morse left the Senate chamber at a late hour in despair. After paying his hotel bill he had only enough money left in his pocket to take him back to New York. He had staked everything on the issue and he had lost, with the necessity ahead of abandoning his darling project for some occupation which would at least give him a livelihood. He was then 53 years old.

The next morning, just as he was preparing to go back to New York and "job-hunting," Miss Annie G Tillsworth, the daughter of the Commissioner of Patents, came to him in high spirits to congratulate him and to tell him that the bill had been passed just before the closing of the session. He was so delighted that he promised she should send the first message to pass over the wires. Her message was "What hath God wrought!"

Even then Morse's troubles were not at an end, as he had the usual battles that inventors have to fight over patents, which gives the note of melodrama to the romance of invention, as in the case when Eli Whitney, whose original model for the cotton gin was stolen from his room before it was patented, and copied, so that the gin brought him only a succession of lawsuits, for all the royalties he succeeded in getting were swallowed up by lawyers' fees.

THE TELEPHONE

Elias Howe went one step further before he met discouragement. After shutting himself up in a garret for six months, he completed his sewing machine, demonstrated it and then found that no one would buy it, because of the great scepticism regarding its practical use. In despair he went to Europe, where he sold his European rights for £250. Fortunately, he did not sell out in America and upon his return found that the machine was at last "taking." But then he was launched into a fight over patents with Singer.

Of the many American inventions none has the dramatic element more strongly marked than Bell's invention of the telephone, which have fortunately been recorded for posterity in the delightful little book by his assistant, Thomas A Watson, called "The Birth and Babyhood of the Telephone." To read it or to hear Mr. Watson tell his story is to learn something of the thrill of so combining known physical forces as to create a new "phenomenon" as startling as a speech-transmitting current. Telephones are so commonplace now it is hard to realise the furor of interest and excitement that created at first.

After long months of experimenting, while Bell and Watson talked over the wire from one room to another in a Boston lodging house where the unsympathetic landlady several times threatened expulsion because of the noise they made shouting, they demonstrated the possibilities of the machine; but even then the public at large thought it would never be of practical value because it would be impossible to hear accurately over the telephone. Conspicuous among the visitors to see the new wonder of the world were insane people to whom an invention made a greater appeal than to their more sane neighbors.

Even then financial troubles were not solved and the Western Union Telegraph Company refused somewhat contemptuously to buy the Bell patents for $100,000. Bell and Watson, in their disappointment, were driven to the decture platform to raise money. Two years later $25,000,000 would not have bought the patents.

In the meantime, Mr. Watson, in his desire to evade the wrath of the landlady which would have been roused if he had wakened the house, one night wrapped himself up in a roll of blankets, which he formed into a pyramid, putting the machine in the peak and leaving a hole at the other end, into which he could climb. Thus did the sound proof telephone booth come into being.

So do we find romance in the actual stories of inventions, and reality in the fantastic tales of Jules Verne, for in the realm of the inventor and the wonders of scientific achievement do we make our nearest approach to the fairy land of the poetic dreamer.

Once-Overs

JUMP IN AND GO TO IT

You say that you want to do a lot of good in the world, you want to be a part in the great work of reconstruction, you are willing to work.

But you are holding back because you have not been personally solicited nor asked definitely to join some particular branch of service.

And you are beginning to be sort of peeved because your neighbors and friends are seemingly all identified in some way with big things and you feel that you have been left out.

What is the matter with your thinking the matter over and deciding where you could do the most good and then volunteering to help in some way?

It is possible that your name has been mentioned and just overlooked.

There is no reason why your help will not be as acceptable as another's.

Don't be so supersensitive.

Donate your money or services to the cause you prefer and see how you will be welcomed by the powers that be.

No one has a monopoly on service.

It is possible the spirit which you would require to offer your service or your money may be just the impetus the good cause needs to put it over the top. At any rate you are holding back the good work just to the amount of what you might be doing and don't.

War Notes From Chinese Papers

The search made by Fengtien troops in private homes in Peking has drawn a protest from the Diplomatic Corps.

The Fengtien troops have occupied the home of Ting Shih-yuan and are making use of the premises for their headquarters.

According to a telegraphic report from General Tien Chung-yu, Tuchun of Shantung, Japanese are again active in their attempt to colonise the province, in view of the internal dispute. He asked that the internal strife be settled at once, in order to present a united front to the foreign aggressors.

Marshal Tuan Chi-jui is suffering from blood-spitting. His physician, Dr. Siao, believes that the condition is not very serious.

It is reported that General Tuan Chi-kwei has died of injuries received in his engagement with the Chihli army.

Two of the ten outlawed Anfu leaders have been arrested. Chu Shen, former Minister of Justice and Yao Tseng, High Justice of the Supreme Court, are reported to be in custody.

A reward of $50,000 has been offered by the Chihli army for the arrest of Little Hsu. The report of his arrest, together with Ting Shih-yuan, after being shot down from a plane by anti-aircraft guns, has not been confirmed.

General Wu Pei-fu has entered Peking, and is residing at the Chinese Race Course.

The bodyguards of Tuan Chi-jui have been disbanded. Only 20 watchmen are left in his residence.

Tuchun Wang Chuan-yuan of Hupeh, has refused to lead in the movement for the creation of a south-eastern alliance.
